Ballots Mailed For Wool Promotion Referendum

Ballots for voting in the June 7-18 referendum on extending the wool and lamb market promotion program have been mailed to all known wool producers in Appomattox County, announced J. P. Alvis, Jr., Chrm. of the Appomattox County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

"The vote will determine whether producers will continue their support for the wool sales promotion program," Mr. Alvis said, "but it will not affect present wool payment legislation."

Under the newagreement, the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the American Sheep Producers Council (ASPC) would set up payment deductions of up to 1 1/5 cents a pround on wool market during 1971-73 and 7 1/2 cents a hundredweight on the auction of lambs marketed. Funds collected would be used by the ASPC to continue a program of advertising, sales promotion,and related activities for wool and lamb.

The ASC Committee Chairman said a similar agreement was approved by 79.9percent of the wool producers voting in a 1966 referendum.

The wool and lambpromotion program, for the year ending June 30, 1970, cost about $3.4 million. The budget for the current year is $3.2 million. Because wool production has decreased, payment deductions have declined to about $2.8 million. ASPC has been able to maintain its promotion activities by using reserve funds. The Council's present woolpromotion is on a national basis in cooperation with additional or matching funds from other segments of the industry. Lamb production now is concerned in high lamb consuming areas.

Anyone who has owned sheep, 6 months old or older, for 30 consecutive days during 1970 may vote in the 2-week referendum.

Approval of two-thirds of the total number of producers voting nationally, or of producers having two-thirds of the total volume of wool production represented in the referendum, must be obtained before the agreement can go into effect.

"Ballots may be mailed or brought to the County ASCS Office beginning June 7," the chairman said. "Anyone who believes he's eligible to vote but has not received a ballot by June 11 should get in touch with the County ASCS office. "To be counted, ballots must reach the County ASCS Office before close of business, Friday, June 18," he cautioned.

Public Hearing June 22nd On Annual Budget

The Appomattox Board of Supervisors has announced its intention to adopt an ordinance Friday morning at its regular session creating boundaries of three magisterial districts with populations nearly equal to each other.

In addition, the board has announced that a public hearing on a proposed county budget of $5,376,391 will be held on Tues. June 22 at 7:30 p.m.

The proposed ordinance sets forth the magisterial districts as follows: Clover Hill,3,264 population; Stonewall, 3,273 and Southside, 3,249.

Changes in the present magisterial districts, which bear the same names concern a change in southern boundary of Stonewall District; and a change in the northern and western boundary of Clover Hill District. The effect is to subtract from Southside District which now contains a greater population than the other two districts.

The southern boundary of Stonewall District, west of Route 26 north now parallels Rt. 460, taking away part of Southside's northern boundary.There is a slight change in former boundary line on the east of Rt. 26 north.

The Clover Hill District boundary has been set several miles to the west of its former line. The new line runs in a southerly direction along the N&W railway and then parallels Road 635 and Cub Creek.

When adopted the ordinance shall be in full force except that the now-existent districts and boundary lines shall continue to be represented on the board of supervisors until Jan. 1,1972.

Candidates for office of county supervisor to be elected on Nov. 9, 1971 shall offer for election from the magisterial districts as established by this ordinance.
